Nielsen Claritas

Using its PRIZM lifestyle segmentation system, Nielsen Claritas analyzed 2008 Presidential Campaign contributions to Sen. John McCain and Sen. Barack Obama based on data obtained from the Federal Elections Commission website (fec.gov) website, which includes all individual donations over $200 to either candidate since the beginning of the 2008 Presidential Primary season and ending as of August 1, 2008. PRIZM classifies the U.S. population into 66 segments based on various socio-economic data, such as income, age, occupation, education and household composition, as well as lifestyle attributes. For descriptions of the top ten contributing segments see the Addendum, and for descriptions of all 66 PRIZM segments visit www.mybestsegments.com.

Top 10 PRIZM Donor Segment for 2008 Presidential Race

The analysis found that just as it was during the 2007 presidential primary season when Nielsen Claritas last looked at campaign contributions through PRIZM data, the same 10 segments (shown below) continue to predominate in terms of political donations. These 10 segments make up 16% of the U.S. population, but account for nearly 60% of political donations.

“Households in these top 10 donor segments are the financial engines for political campaigns, because they are over four times more likely to contribute than the average household,” said Mike Mancini, Vice President of Data Product Management for Nielsen Claritas, The Nielsen Company’s marketing information provider that pioneered the segmentation system.

The Rest of America

Of the remaining 56 PRIZM segments, Sen. McCain leads in only 12 as far as donations, but is ahead in 27 segments based on donation dollars, meaning his contributors have higher donation averages than Sen. Obama's contributors.

In looking at donation share by segment, Sen. Obama does very well with less affluent, Urban segments such as City Roots, Urban Elders and Big City Blues. Sen. McCain does very well with less affluent rural segments such as Kid Country USA, Bedrock America and Shotguns & Pickups.

Upper Midscale Class Donors

In this social class, Sen. Obama leads handily in both the total number of donations and the donation dollar amount. His strongest Upper Midscale supporters come from urban segments such as Bohemian Mix, The Cosmopolitans and American Dreams.

As for Sen. McCain's key Upper Midscale supporters, they are New Homesteaders, Big Sky Families and Mayberry-Ville.

Interestingly, Sen. McCain's top segments here tend to be younger, while Sen. Obama's are either middle-aged or older.

Midscale Class Donors

Among the Midscale segments, the race for donation dollars is a virtually a dead heat with Sen. McCain at 51 percent and Sen. Obama at 49 percent. In fact, all the segments but Gray Power, where Sen. McCain was up by double digits, is separated by just a few percentages points. However, in looking at the percentage of donations column Sen. Obama is ahead by a margin of 60 percent to 40 percent, which follows the national trend where Sen. Obama receives the lion's share of the number of donations and Sen. McCain tends to receive the larger donation dollar amount.

Further, all five of these segments come from suburban areas and can play a vital role in key battleground states such as Virginia, North Carolina and Florida, which have large swaths of suburbs.

Addendum

Descriptions of Top 10 Voter Segments:

Young Digerati – Young Digerati are the nation's tech-savvy singles and couples living in fashionable neighborhoods on the urban fringe. Affluent, highly educated and ethnically mixed, Young Digerati communities are typically filled with trendy apartments and condos, fitness clubs and clothing boutiques, casual restaurants and all types of bars--from juice to coffee to microbrew.

Upper Crust – The nation's most exclusive address, Upper Crust is the wealthiest lifestyle in America—a haven for empty-nesting couples over 55 years old. No segment has a higher concentration of residents earning over $200,000 a year or possessing a postgraduate degree. And none has a more opulent standard of living.

Money & Brains – The residents of Money & Brains seem to have it all: high incomes, advanced degrees and sophisticated tastes to match their credentials. Many of these city dwellers—predominantly white with a high concentration of Asian Americans—are married couples with few children who live in fashionable homes on small, manicured lots.

Big Fish, Small Pond – Older, upper-class, college-educated professionals, the members of Big Fish, Small Pond are often among the leading citizens of their small-town communities. These upscale, empty-nesting couples enjoy the trappings of success, belonging to country clubs, maintaining large investment portfolios and spending freely on computer technology.

Bohemian Mix – A collection of young, mobile urbanites, Bohemian Mix represents the nation's most liberal lifestyles. Its residents are a progressive mix of young singles and couples, students and professionals, Hispanics, Asians, African-Americans and whites. In their funky rowhouses and apartments, Bohemian Mixers are the early adopters who are quick to check out the latest movie, nightclub, laptop and microbrew.

Movers & Shakers – Movers & Shakers is home to America's up-and-coming business class: a wealthy suburban world of dual-income couples who are highly educated, typically between the ages of 35 and 54, often without children. Given its high percentage of executives and white-collar professionals, there's a decided business bent to this segment: Movers & Shakers rank number-one for owning a small business and having a home office.

Urban Achievers – Concentrated in the nation's port cities, Urban Achievers is often the first stop for up-and-coming immigrants from Asia, South America and Europe. These young singles and couples are typically college-educated and ethnically diverse: about a third are foreign-born, and even more speak a language other than English.

Blue Blood Estates – Blue Blood Estates is a family portrait of suburban wealth, a place of million-dollar homes and manicured lawns, high-end cars and exclusive private clubs. The nation's second-wealthiest lifestyle, it is characterized by married couples with children, college degrees, a significant percentage of Asian Americans and six-figure incomes earned by business executives, managers and professionals.

Country Squires – The wealthiest residents in exurban America live in Country Squires, an oasis for affluent Baby Boomers who've fled the city for the charms of small-town living. In their bucolic communities noted for their recently built homes on sprawling properties, the families of executives live in six-figure comfort. Country Squires enjoy country club sports like golf, tennis and swimming as well as skiing, boating and biking.

Second City Elite – There's money to be found in the nation's smaller cities, and you're most likely to find it in Second City Elite. The residents of these satellite cities tend to be prosperous executives who decorate their $200,000 homes with multiple computers, large-screen TV sets and an impressive collection of wines. With more than half holding college degrees, Second City Elite residents enjoy cultural activities—from reading books to attending theater and dance.
